Creative Uniform

There comes a time when a dish's final touches happen when we are at our most vulnerable — dressed to the nines! Only then do we take into account how important functionality is, especially when kitchen textiles decorate one's spotless kitchen. For those with eccentric taste, Bjørn Wiinblad's range of textiles — including multi-purpose aprons and oven mitts — colours one's home with the artist's happy universe motifs and masculine strokes from his signature. Indeed, a well-deserved thumbs up goes to the famed designs as the apron is made from 100% cotton, whilst the extra-long mitts protect one's forearms in a practical yet attractive fashion. Whether it's blue or red, the range makes an uplifting addition to the kitchen.

Timely Approach

If it weren't for those who struggled to tell time, sun-cycles would not have evolved into the clocks that we know today. Pushing the boundaries further is the word clock from QLOCKTWO Classic Carbon Fibre as it eliminates the entire numbering system altogether. Instead, it prefers an ultra-thin lightweight carbon panel — a material used in automotive engineering, racing and space flight — to highlight its letters against the matte black finish that suits any industrial-esque home. Understanding only too well the importance of time to any average person, Biegert & Funk did not forget to include an alarm clock as well as a wrist watch into the mix. Biegert & Funk is available online.

Where Light Needs To Be

Without having one's home look like an indoor stadium, the subtle, soft light of the intuitive Tilt makes up for more seductive corners. A cupped reflector at its best, the Tilt series by Nyta transforms spaces as its matte finish guides a polished outlook, even in a dry kitchen. Putting dinner together has never felt better, and this young German lighting brand has definitely proven itself with an award-winning collection of luminaires committed to making adjustable pendant lights a thing of ordinary standards in a home. What's more, personalisation is part of the story as the insides of the lamp shade as well as the outer hue and cord can be changed according to your liking. Looks like directive light needs not the summoning of Harry Potter's wand when Tilt is around. Nyta is available at Made & Make.
